

It's Christmas Eve.
Mother Bunny is very busy.
She's making the dinner
and wrapping the presents and tidying the house.

The little bunnies aren't helping her. They're shouting and fighting and making a mess.

Point to the bunnies.
Barney is helping.
Benjy and Betsey are running and shouting.
Billy and Becky are fighting.

“Stop shouting and fighting and making a mess!” says Mother Bunny.
“And go outside and play!”

“Where’s my hat?” says Benjy.

“Where’s my coat?” says Becky.

“You’ve got my gloves,” says Billy.

“And you’ve got my boots,” says Betsey.

“I can’t find my hat, or my coat, or my gloves, or my boots or my scarf,” says Barney, the baby bunny.

Who has got a blue coat?
Who has got green gloves?

I don't like chase!

Where is Becky?
She is in front of
and behind

Now the bunnies are all outside.
“Let’s play chase,” says Benjy.
The bunnies are very fast.
Barney can’t catch them.
“I don’t like chase,” he says.
